Hi There,

I'm Renée, author, blogger, virtual assistant, and wife to my beloved husband of 27 years. I'm also a homeschool mom to one amazingly talented 16 year old son. My family and I live in the Kansas City, Missouri area. Where we love BBQ, Royals Baseball, and our community.

Family is my passion! I love creating a home and family lifestyle that promotes peaceful living. We enjoy spending time together, whether it's game nights, movie nights, video games, watching a ballgame, or getting ice cream, we like to do these activities together.

Homeschool is my family's choice of education and we seek to allow our child to learn in his own unique way and develop his skills at his own rate of learning.

Writing is another passion of mine. Which is why I have chosen to blog. I share tips & tricks, information, and reviews with my readers to help them find solutions for maintain their homes, meal plans, and education for their own children. I develop a variety of printable resources for my followers to keep them engaged and coming back for more.

I invite you to explore ReneeAtGreatPeace.com to see what I offer my readers and how I can assist you in sharing your family friendly products and message with moms who are passionate about their families.
